The seal of the City of Lansing, Michigan, is a circular emblem. It features a central illustration of the Michigan State Capitol building, a large dome-topped structure with classical architectural details. Behind the building is a bright sun with numerous rays emanating from it. On either side of the building are two large, leafy trees. Below the building is a winding river. The entire scene is enclosed within a circular border. The words "LANSING" and "MICHIGAN" are written in a serif font along the bottom half of the border, separated by a small gap at the bottom.
